Holiday Party

The December CMWA meeting hosted the annual CMWA Holiday Party.

Due to the Holiday Party, there was no speaker this month, however, Tom Homan did a great job of delivering a humorous presentation while handing out numerous trophies to the participants of the Habitat for Humanity project just recently completed. Tom's entertaining commentary on the reasons for each of the awards made the event well worth attending. It just goes to show that any job worth doing well will always have its share of screw-ups.

The woodshop was standing room only.

There was plenty of food at this year's event.

January Meeting

Scott Randall will be discussing glues and adhesives at the January CMWA meeting. Specifically, he will cover the advantages and disadvantages of PVA, Cyanoacrylate, Polyurethane, Epoxy, Urea Formaldehyde and Hide glue. Scott will talk about their common uses and demonstrate how each one is used.

If you've never used these adhesives or are not familiar with them, it will be a great learning experience.
